WHAT ARE COOKIES?

Cookies are text files which a website may put on your computer or other device when you first visit a site or page. The cookie will help the website, or another website, to recognise your device the next time you visit. Web beacons or similar files can also do the same thing. The term "cookies" is used in this policy to refer to all files that collect information in this way.

Cookies serve many functions. For example, they can help analyse how well the website is performing, to remember your username and preferences, or even allow recommendations to be made regarding content we believe will be most relevant to you.

Personal information can contain certain personal information - for example, if you click to "remember me" when logging in, a cookie will store your username. Most cookies won't collect information that identifies you and will instead collect more general information such as how users arrive at and use the website, or a user's general location.

WHAT SORT OF COOKIES DOES THE SITE USE?

Generally, we use cookies to perform up to four different functions:

1. ESSENTIAL COOKIES

Some cookies are essential for the operation of the Site. For example, some cookies allow Us to identify registered users and ensure they can access their 'registered users only' pages. If a registered user opts to disable these cookies, the user will not be able to access all of the content that registration entitles them to.

2. FUNCTIONALITY COOKIES

Functionality cookies allow us to remember your preferences. For example, cookies save you the trouble of typing in your username every time you access the Site, recall your saved searches and properties you have added to your favourites, and where relevant, any details you have entered into the calculations or other interactive features in relation to mortgages on our Site.

3. ANALYTICAL OR PERFORMANCE COOKIES

Other cookies analyse how visitors use the Site and to monitor website performance. We can therefore try to provide a high-quality experience by customising our offering and quickly identifying and fixing any issues that arise. For example, performance cookies keep track of which pages are very popular, which method of linking between pages is best, and can be used to determine why some pages are receiving error messages. We might also use these cookies to highlight articles or site services that we think will be of interest to you based on your usage of the Site.

4. BEHAVIOURALLY TARGETED ADVERTISING COOKIES

The Site and our advertisers use cookies to serve you with advertisements that we believe are relevant to you and your interests. For example, if you read a number of articles on mortgages on the website or on other sites, a bank might infer you are interested in this topic and serve you with our mortgage advertisements. You might see these advertisements on the website and on other sites that you visit. However, we do not tell our advertisers who you are.

SPECIFIC COOKIES

We use both 'Session ID Cookies', which allow us to track your actions during a single browsing session, but do not remain on your device afterwards, and 'Persistent Cookies', which remain on your device between sessions, for the purposes outlined below. Unless otherwise specified below, each of the cookies we use are Persistent Cookies.

Session ID and Persistent Cookies can be either first or third party cookies. A first-party cookie is set by the website being visited and a third-party cookie is set by a different website. Both types of cookie may be used by us or our business partners, and we have divided the specific cookies below into first-party and third-party cookies.

Any third-party cookies will be governed by their own terms and privacy policies, so you should read these before giving your consent to enable these third-party cookies. Please note that we have no control over third party cookies.

We may also collect and store personal data on your computer or other device using application data caches and browser web storage (including HTML 5) and other technology.

The pixel will be deleted when you delete the email. If you do not wish the pixel to be downloaded to your device, you should select to receive emails from us in plain text rather than HTML.
